DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH. Hyomel the Only Guaranteed Cure for Catarrh.

No one should confound Hyomel with the patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is far superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomel gives its formula to all reputable physicians and is prescribed by them generally.

The only way to cure catarrh and all other diseases of the respiratory organs is to breathe Hyomel.

This treatment has been so successful in curing 99 per cent. of all who have used it, that Hyomel is now sold by G. L. Penny under an absolute guarantee to refund the money in case it does not benefit. You run no risk whatever in buying Hyomel. If it did not possess unusual powers to cure it could not be sold upon this plan.

More than 500 students worked their way through Columbia University last year, earning in various ways $74,021.17, according to a report of the secretary of the committee on employment for students. The ways in which students earn money are as varied as their abilities. The 85 different occupations reported varied all the way from bell-boy, driver, laborer, conductor, clerk and stenographer to electrician, teacher, draughtsman, lay reader and sub-editor.

RESOLUTIONS.—We, the members of the Stanford Baptist church, most earnestly thank Mr. W. P. Walton for the use of the Opera House for Sunday school and church services while our church was under repair. We also desire to thank the Odd Fellows for the use of their hall for Dr. Kirtley's lecture. Committee.

The greatest of World's Fairs closed in a blaze of glory, and in the after-glow the figure of David R. Francis, the big Kentuckian who was its leading spirit, looms large against the horizon.—Louisville Times.

An officer has completed a yacht which is built entirely of newspapers. The hull, deck, mast and sails are of paper, of which there were 300,000 newspaper sheets.

PREACHERSVILLE.

P. E. Parrish delivered to Jesse Fox a bunch of hogs at 5c.

The meeting at the M. E. church is progressing nicely. Rev. Simpson has returned home and Rev. Oney, of Lancaster, is now in charge of the work.

Miss Rachel Foley, who has been sick, is improving. Mrs. Frank Gross is sick. Mrs. Wm. Richardson is convalescent. J. J. Smith and wife, of Rockcastle, visited at J. M. Cress'.

The girls all want to vote Davy Lunsford as great a hero as Hobson, since he climbed the stove pipe at the church a few nights since to remove the bricks that had fallen into the flue. Luckily, however, his face was so sooty that they did not recognize him.

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blackenship, which was celebrated at their home near here on Nov. 29, was the occasion of much gratification on the part of their children, grand-children and a host of friends and connections elsewhere. Those present enjoyed themselves in pleasant conversation and by listening to Uncle Henry recount the many pleasant experiences of other days. He was as gay as a 16-year-old boy all day long. When dinner was announced we repaired to the dining room, where the venerable gentleman, seated by the side of his once youthful bride, returned thanks to the Giver of every good and perfect gift. The next hour or so was spent in satisfying the lesser man, cake, turkey and other toothsome viands and delectable dainties were put out of sight very quickly. After the 30 guests had dined, there yet remained the proverbial seven baskets full. After dinner Uncle Henry told us the following incidents in his life: "I was married Nov. 29th, 1854, to Miss Mary Jane Harp, by Rev. Wm. Newland. There was a big crowd at the wedding, now there are only two living witnesses. Ten children were born to us and all lived to be grown; all made Baptists and democrats. All married and gone and I am left a happy man. I am the oldest settler in this neighborhood and was brought to this place at two years of age. Never lived out of the county but 12 months. Always paid my taxes every year when due since I attained my majority and was the fifth man in the county to pay this year. Have been a very lucky man, was never a witness or a juror and am now in my 73rd year. This was once a heavily wooded country, but I have lived to see it all in cultivation and no timber now scarcely at all. When I went to school we were glad to go three miles to a log cabin and the only seats we had were split logs with legs stuck in bored holes. Then there were no lady teachers. The teacher would walk around with a switch in his hand three feet long and just before sundown he would go to the door, look at the sun, then blow his nose and you would have thought it a steam whistle. Then he would turn around and say, 'get yer spellin' lessons,' then all went to studying out loud and the noise they made could be heard for 300 yards. I have known Preachersville for 65 years. I knew the town when there were only two houses in it. People want to know how the place got its name. It was so named because three preachers lived here at the same time. Rev. Leak was the Baptist preacher, Rev. Eads a Methodist and Rev. Jarret a Campbellite, as that denomination was known at that time. John Proctor was the first postmaster. If there was a letter for you from anywhere in the State, you had to pay 5 cents, one from outside the State 10 cents. James Robinson kept the first store. Now it is a town a mile long and more than 100 inhabitants, three stores, two blacksmith shops, a Masonic hall and two churches. Its people are as good as ever lived or died. Never has there been but one arrest in all since I have known it as a postoffice. Our nearest neighbor, Griffin Station, a mile south, is a prosperous place and the home of some good people. Among those present were 'Uncle Billy' Warren, wife and sister, of Stanford, Jas. Burke and family, Neals Creek; Woodart Lunsford and family, Hubble, Jas. Blankenship, Woodford, Jack Kirby and wife, B. F. Lunsford and wife, of Preachersville. Your correspondent enjoyed himself immensely and now realizes that it was good to have been there and regrets that he can not attend a golden wedding every other day. We sincerely hope the aged couple may be permitted to enjoy many more happy years.

"You told me this horse had won half a dozen matches against some of the best horses in the country. He can't trot a mile in six minutes to save him."

"It was in plowing matches that he took the prizes."
